1. The Russians telephoned ranking officials of the Central Administrations about daybreak on 27 June 1947 and summoned them to a conference at 0700 hours of the same day. Upon arrival the officials were interrogated by the MVD in reference to a serious leak on the plans for a Central Government. The MVD required an account of every minute of the last twenty-four hours. Statements were recorded in writing.
2. Ulbricht visited Louschner and accused him of giving away details on the proposed government.
3. Fritz Selbmann was summoned from Saxony and accused of allowing the leak.
4. No arrests are reported.
5. As of 1630 hours on 27 June 1947 the Russians were still conferring on arrangements for government. It is reported that they intended to arrive at a final decision before the end of the day.
